Tire Prices to 'Soften'

AKRON, May 15.—Tire prices should "soften" in early 1947 as production meets, or possibly surpasses, consumer demand, Good-year Tire and Rubber Co. officials predict.

The industry, Goodyear President E. J. Thomas told a group of New York reporters yesterday, should produce 65,000,000 passenger tires this year in the face of a demand early next year of only 60,000,000.

HOUSE GROUP ORDERS PROBE

New Developments Pose
Two Problems for Government Officials

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, May 15.—Fast-dwindling wheat supplies at the mills threatened today to force a six-week holiday in the output of flour for domestic consumption. This possibility arose as the house agriculture committee announced a comprehensive investigation of both the domestic and world food situations, with the first session set tomorrow.

Chairman Plannagan (D-Va.) said if evidence warranted the committee also would consider the necessity for renewed food rationing. Most lawmakers, however, apparently remained unconvinced there is need for restoring such controls at this time.

The flour situation shaped up this way:
On May 1 mills were required to cut their stocks to a 21-day supply. Few if any have been able to obtain wheat in the meantime because the government is offering farmers a bonus of 30 cents a bushel above the ceiling price—which is the top legitimate price mills may offer. And the 1946 wheat will not start moving to market until July.

Two Problems
Some mills already have shut down and a survey last night indicated many others either would close or curtail operations sharply. This prospect posed two problems for the government:

(1) Will flour stocks on hand be sufficient to supply consumers until the new wheat crop becomes available?
(2) Should the government divert some of the famine-relief wheat it is buying from American mills in order to keep them operating until the new harvest.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson is known to be studying these problems.

Chester C. Davis, chairman of President Truman's famine emergency committee, told an interviewer he believed supplies of flour now in distribution channels would be sufficient to meet domestic needs on the basis of consumption recommendations of his committee until new wheat becomes available.

The committee's consumption standard calls for voluntary use of 40 per cent less wheat products than before the current food emergency arose.

Consumption Unchanged
Davis said surveys indicated about one out of three consumers is not attempting to comply with the "eat-less-bread" program.

Davis said he believes the government should divert the export wheat to the mills to keep them operating. He said, however, that all the flour milled from government wheat should be earmarked for relief overseas.

"I believe Secretary Anderson will adopt such a policy," Davis said.

The famine committee chairman warmly approved a program announced by Anderson yesterday for controlling the use and distribution of the 1946 wheat crop. That program calls for continued limitations

Credit Group Told Of '52 Depression

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Unless a successful method of controlling business cycles is developed, the nation is likely to face a serious depression between 1952 and 1955, a gathering of credit workers was told today.

In an address before delegates of the National Retail Credit association, the Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs of North America and the Associated Credit Bureaus of Cincinnati, an economist for the Proctor Gamble Co. asserted:

"Goods by that time will be on a replacement basis. World agriculture will have reached normal production. Prices will have retreated from wartime levels."

For the period leading up to then, however, Whitney predicted that the country would enjoy a boom until 1948 and then experience a recession through the middle of 1949. Three to five years of prosperity should follow, he added.

He told the credit workers that prices would not rise more than 20 per cent above their present level and that wage rates would continue to advance.

Stop-Gap Draft Bill Bars Father-Teen Age Inductions

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, May 15.—Childless men 26 through 29 years old came back into the draft picture today as President Truman's choice of the "lesser of two evils" kept Selective Service legally alive but crippled.

For the moment, however, only men 20-25 will be inducted. Mr. Truman chose last night to sign a 45-day stop-gap extension of the draft law—but with an outright ban on inductions of either fathers or teen-age youths—rather than let the act expire at midnight.

The chief executive affixed his signature just four hours before the deadline. Less than two hours earlier the senate rammed through the extended after Senator Langer R-ND abandoned his threat to talk selective service to death.

All Boards Notified
Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey immediately wired local boards to confine inductions to men in the under-26 group Mr. Truman designated when Japan fell last August, but army officials in a position to know said this would have to be changed.

Noting that the new law specifically permits men 20 through 29 to be drafted, one official said, "of course, that's what we'll have to do." He asked not to be identified by name.

Draft headquarters spokesmen said under the new setup Selective Service has a pool of only about 59,000 eligibles 20 through 25 from which to meet monthly calls. They estimated that perhaps 50 per cent may be physically unfit.

Raising of the limit to include men 26, 27, 28 and 29 would provide only an additional 13,000 registrants for possible induction, they added.

Mr. Truman left no doubt he was displeased with the way the draft extension was brought about. His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, described the "lesser of two evils" decision in telling reporters the President regarded the stop-gap measure as a "bad bill."

Talks For Four Hours
While Langer held the senate floor, Mr. Truman signed an executive order that would have preserved Selective Service machinery but permitted no actual inductions. Final enactment of the bill made this action unnecessary.

Several senators complained they were being forced by pressure of time to accept the house ban on drafting teen-agers. But it was Langer who carried the brunt of the fight.

Sharply critical of conscription in peacetime, the hoarse-voiced North Dakotan talked for more than four hours in an effort to block a vote. Democratic and Republican leaders appealed to him time and again to give up the floor.

Finally Langer sat down and in a jiffy Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), acting as presiding officer, gavelled the measure through.

While the new law exempts 18 and 19 year olds from the draft, Selective Service said youths turning 18 still will be required to register.

Brand Payroll Levy As New Social Theory

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Soft coal operators today flatly rejected as a "new social theory" John L. Lewis' demand for a seven per cent payroll levy on operators to finance a welfare fund for mine workers.

While they did not turn down the idea of a fund, their action seemingly erased any possibility of a permanent settlement of the coal dispute by nightfall as President Truman asked.

Lewis has served notice he will not negotiate a new contract "now or later" unless he gets the fund which he proposes to put under the exclusive control of the United Mine Workers.

As a counter-proposal to Lewis' proposition, the operators suggested the possibility of setting up a jointly-financed fund for hardship cases under the administration of an independent agency such as the Red Cross.

The operators' negotiating committee said in replying to the United Mine Workers that Lewis' proposal presented "a new social theory and philosophy, the effect of which would extend to every industry in America, and as such must be considered and acted upon as a national problem and not as one relating to the coal industry alone."

The committee said the problem was one to be considered by public legislative bodies.

Three Reasons of Rejection
The operators gave three major reasons for rejecting Lewis' demand for the levy to be paid by operators who estimated it would net the union $70,000,000 annually on the basis of last year's payroll:

"1. The committee would not exercise such authority and make a commitment of this character for the industry, and further, this matter does not go to the question of wages, hours or working conditions.

"2. That the plan constitutes double taxation on the industry for social welfare, for which it is now paying approximately 10 cents per ton, which in 1944 amounted to more than $61,000,000. This amount was contributed solely by the operators.

"3. That it is a matter of public concern and is therefore a problem that should be considered not by this wage conference but by public legislative bodies and then only after a complete and thorough investigation by such legislative bodies of all the problems involved."

The contract negotiations recessed for three hours immediately after the operators presented their statement. Lewis and other UMW representatives remained behind for a short time to talk with government conciliators.

Asked for comment as he left the conference room, Lewis replied as follows: "It seems that for a coal miner there is no balm in Gilead."

Negotiations To Continue
Government Conciliator Edward F. McGrady said he had proposed the recess but that "I saw no danger" of an immediate breakdown of negotiations or of Lewis' walking out of the contract conferences.

Lewis and Charles O'Neill, official spokesman for the operators, are due to report to President Truman during the afternoon.

The operators reminded Lewis that on March 25 they had proposed joint investigation and consideration of a plan to create by mutual contribution a "recession fund" to be used in unusual hardship cases. The fund, they suggested, should be administered by some independent agency such as the Red Cross with the advice of the mine workers and operators.

Lewis wants sole union control of the fund he has proposed.

The operators repeated that such an investigation should be conducted to disclose the facts and then the fund be based on the findings of such investigation.

They contended that the miners "are well paid and are able to maintain a very high standard of living and a first grade order of citizenship."

Flight Training For Ohio Teachers

COLUMBUS, May 15.—Any Ohio teacher, it now seems, can go and get "flying experience" free as part of a joint effort by the state department of education and the aviation board to make more people think about the airplane age.

C. E. A. Brown, state aviation director, disclosed today the program was getting under way at 60 odd flight schools approved for GI training. The "flight experience" consists of actual flying and handling the controls under the eye of ex-army and navy pilots taking instructors' courses.

"Teachers are asked only to comment and constructively criticize the instruction," Brown said. "The instructor will not try to make pilots out of teachers, but will attempt to give them a true understanding of aviation by actually flying in the air."

Taking off from there, Brown placed his faith in psychology and counted on the teachers to find opportunities to remark to his or her mathematics pupils, "how while I was taking a flight lesson today..."

Brown said he expected the program to have another main benefit of helping the pilots learn how to teach flying.

"When an experienced teacher from a public school works with him, he can learn how to simplify his explanations and make them more understandable, thus reaching more people. He can pick up the teacher's methods of stimulating enthusiasm and continuing interest in a subject."

Brooks Contest Winners Awarded At High School

Prize winners in the short story, essay and poetry divisions of the annual Brooks contest presented their manuscripts to the Salem High school student body in a special assembly this morning in the school auditorium.

Awards of $10, $6, and $3, which are made possible through a grant from the late Atty. Charles Twing Brooks, were given to the winners by Principal B. G. Ludwig.

Gertrude Wilms, whose poem, "The Fulfillment," won second prize in this year's judging, was the only student to be honored for the second consecutive year. Last year, Miss Wilms was accorded honorable mention in the short story division.

Topping her poem was Doris Eyrton's composition, "The Country Club," which won first prize. Velma O'Neil placed third in the poetry division with a poem entitled, "God's Work." Honorable mention went to Harvey Walken and Ann Helm for "The Salty Sea" and "The Little Pianist," respectively.

Winners in the short story group and their work were: First, Marilyn Mellinger, "Thoughts of an American Soldier"; second, Robert Harris, "The Last Mile"; third, Carolyn Butcher, "The Score Is Evened"; honorable mention, Mary Lou Vincent, "The Encore" and Naomi Fiddoe, "He Got What He Wanted."

Duane Yeagley's essay, "Spring" topped "So You're An M. D." by Thomas Holbach and "The Debt" by Juanita Shaster. Nancy Probst and Joe Bachman won honorable mention for "And How Is Your I. Q.?" and "Portsmouth Underwater," respectively.

Same Shoe, Other Foot

To understand what is behind resentment of the tactics of United Mine Workers in the coal strike, it is interesting to speculate about what would be happening if the shoe were on the other foot.

Imagine, for example, that mine owners had reached a decision to cut off the country's coal supply in order to bring about a crisis. Imagine that their intention was to use the crisis to dictate terms to their own advantage, on the ground that the emergency justified settlement at any price.

Imagine that instead of a strike, or as United Mine Workers puts it—"No contract, no work"—there had been a lockout. In that event, there would be tremendous pressure on government to seize mining properties. Mine employees would be demanding the right to go back to work. Public indignation would be aimed at mine owners, instead of John L. Lewis and his miners' union.

Imagine further that the owners had chosen to be difficult and were demanding agreement to several highly controversial propositions before negotiating on the proposition of wages. What has been said about Mr. Lewis and his union would be complimentary by contrast with what would be said about the mine owners if they were employing the same tactics. What has been proposed in Congress as legislative retaliation against Mr. Lewis and his union would be mild compared to the retaliation that would be forthcoming if mine owners had cut off the country's coal supply.

No coal mine owner in his right mind would dream of getting away with it. Mr. Lewis himself may not get away with it.

Perhaps We'll Wear Better

The disappointing, even disgraceful, conduct of many United States soldiers on occupation duty abroad is a matter of official record. But it may be too soon to judge the conduct of United States soldiers abroad.

Possibly no soldier on earth is less well-adapted to occupation duty. For most Americans to live abroad anywhere is to be deprived of material comforts. They resent this. Many of them resent being away from home for no better reason than their inability to go home when they feel like it. As members of a military force raised through conscription, they are not as closely disciplined as the members of large standing armies. And above and beyond all other causes contributing to bad behavior is the fact that the bad behaviors have been the same way at home. The United States has a crime rate, especially among juveniles, that shocks most Europeans.

The ultimate question, however, is not the absolute but the comparative behavior of American soldiers abroad. Would the French, for instance, prefer Germans? Would the Austrians prefer Russians? Would Germans prefer British? Would the Japanese prefer Russians or Chinese? We are told that German soldiers behaved extremely well, but we have not heard that they were any better loved than Americans. Nor has anyone publicly expressed a preference for Russians, or even for the British. There has been only criticism of Americans, which is a kind of international prerogative.

It leaves little to hope for, except that in the long pull Americans may wear just as well, or perhaps a little better, than invading troops have worn down through the long, hard passages of history. They couldn't wear any worse.

Relations With Russia

A talking point used frequently by left-wing critics of the State Department is that relations with the Soviet Union have become unfriendly. In a recent convention of federal, state and municipal employees affiliated with C.I.O., a resolution urging President Truman and Secretary of State Byrnes "to take positive steps to re-establish friendly U. S.-Soviet relations by word and deed" was adopted.

This has so little relation to reality, as the ordinary run of Americans understand the situation, that it is incredible. Relations with the Soviet Union, as most Americans see them, have been maintained on a basis as friendly as possible under severe handicaps imposed by the Russians themselves.

This country has admitted large numbers of Russians on various government missions. It has interceded to avert clashes of Allied viewpoints. It has accommodated itself to the unwillingness of Josef Stalin to confer in Russia's behalf at points which would require him to make long trips.

In its press and radio and in all its official statements it has leaned over backward to warn the people against the danger of judging Russian behavior harshly. Diplomatically, it has been in as complete touch with the Russian government as the latter would permit, which always was a little less than the United States desired. The United States has gone further than it ever went before in so short a time to demonstrate a wish to be friendly.

Unfortunately, it has been given almost no encouragement from Russia. What is it that our Russians would have the United States do that hasn't been done already?

Two Things Were Overlooked

At this stage of postwar experience, most of it discouraging, there is a sealing-down of hopes that were too optimistic.

In the field of postwar international relations, most of the high hopes already have been deflated. In the domestic field, the deflation is just now beginning.

It is a disagreeable process. It is generating cynicism that can become dangerous if it turns into hopelessness. But there is no apparent way to stop it.

Two things were overlooked in the postwar prospect. One was the inevitable impact of history's greatest war on America's complex economy, an impact made greater than it needed to be by fumbling in Washington. The other was the spillover.

At a critical instant, when the United States needed to pull together for its common welfare, disunity broke out like a plague. There was disunity in government. Organized minorities, principally the great labor unions, chose to demonstrate the strength they had achieved. Certainly by hindsight it is going to look as if some of them were more mindful of immediate gains than ultimate welfare.

The consequence now becoming clear is that the United States must be prepared to endure more hardship than it had expected to endure. Many shortages assumed to be temporary are going to continue. Many shortages are going to get worse, instead of better. In some instances, there will be new shortages. The post-war era is not going to be a release from the heavy responsibility of wartime, as many of us had hoped it would be. It is going to be a challenge. We are going to learn that history's greatest war is vastly more than a war boom purchased with the sacrifices and death of fighting men. It is something that must be paid for in toil, sweat and tears with the blood of wartime taken away but the cynicism of peacetime added.

Gingivitis and Its Treatment

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
BECAUSE the war made necessary careful physical examination of large numbers of men and women, it has revealed a number of hitherto unknown facts. As a result we now know that certain disorders are much more frequent than was formerly supposed.

One of these, discovered in Canada to afflict a large number of young men, is gingivitis or inflammation of the gums. Of 1448 apparently normal men examined, one-fifth were found to have gingivitis.

Swollen Gums
Often, the condition caused no symptoms. However, a large number of the patients had painful, swollen gums or bleeding of the gums.

Exactly what causes gingivitis is still a matter of some dispute. It has been stated that perhaps the condition is due to a lack of vitamin C or ascorbic acid. In gingivitis there is redness and swelling of the gums. Later on they may become thickened.

These changes, it has been reported, may be overcome by giving ascorbic acid in large amounts. Dr. W. J. Linghorne and his co-workers of Canada carried out some studies on a large group of men to determine the effect of various nutritive substances on the gingivitis.

In the first studies which they made, they noted that giving large amounts of vitamins A and D, B-1 and B-2, and niacin which is a part of the B-Complex, as well as ascorbic acid, for a period of five months seemed to have little effect on the gums.

Large Doses

In their second and third studies, however, they noted that, when the gum inflammation was cleared up to the maximum degree by local treatment, the giving of a large amount of ascorbic acid was more successful in keeping the condition from recurring than was the giving of smaller amounts of ascorbic acid. The local treatment which was carried out was to apply a paste made by mixing a liquid and powder into the pockets in the gums. The paste thus formed was retained in the place for a period of of ascorbic acid, the gingivitis could be kept from recurring. There was no difference in the effect on the gum tissue whether the ascorbic acid was supplied in natural foods as for example, 4 ounces of orange juice, or was given in the form of tablets.

It would appear from this study that gingivitis or gum inflammation may be due in part at least to a vitamin C deficiency but in all cases, to overcome the condition, careful treatment by the dentist is necessary.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

Agriculture Department Against Control Program

WASHINGTON, May 15—Under Secretary N. E. Dodd said today the agriculture department hopes to avoid going back to the farm production control programs of the thirties.

"We want farmers to be able to produce to the limit of their resources and we want consumers to be able to have the benefits of abundance in the form of more and better products," he testified to the senate agriculture committee.

Dodd endorsed legislation under which the secretary of agriculture would take over wartime-built government industrial alcohol plants and use them in disposal of surplus farm commodities.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Consider Bill For Urban Development

COLUMBUS, May 15—Municipalities would be authorized to condemn property and issue general obligation bonds for redevelopment projects under a tentative draft of a bill now being considered by the urban redevelopment commission.

In addition to authority to issue general obligation bonds to finance such projects, authority also would be given to finance from general tax revenues, revenue bonds or by special assessments.

Before any development program could be established, the community first would have to establish a planning commission that would adopt a flexible but comprehensive plan that would be a broad guide and pattern for future development of the municipality.

The commission will meet early in June and soon thereafter a final draft of the measure for presentation to the legislature is expected to be agreed upon.

A Statement of Facts To the Public

On April 19th President Truman and Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture, announced that, for a period of three months, bakers would be required to limit their production of baked products to 75% of the amount produced during the corresponding months of 1945.

It is a matter of fact that the consumption of bread has increased about 10% this year as compared to a year ago. This is no doubt due to the return of millions of war veterans. Therefore, this reduction represents approximately one third rather than one fourth as the public is led to believe. This circumstance has resulted in a shortage of bread.

We want our customers to know that there is nothing we can do to supply the stores with more Keystone Bread. To be of some help in making bread go further we are slicing all Keystone Bread thinner, so now there are two more slices in each Keystone loaf.

The Keystone Bakery has always conducted its business along ethical lines, we have not indulged in black market operations and certainly we do not intend to do so at this time. We have faith to believe that our customers will respect us for this policy.

Under the existing conditions we feel sure our many friends and customers will remain loyal throughout this emergency, and we hope to enjoy their continued good will and patronage.

on domestic consumption of wheat products by both humans and livestock, as well as government requisitioning of 250,000,000 bushels from commercial supplies to meet overseas needs.

Plannagan and other members of the committee have complained of what they described as confusing reports on food conditions.

Only a Threat

"First we have a report there is mass starvation," Plannagan said. "Now we have a report that Mr. Hoover sees only a threat of mass starvation."

"We hear there is plenty of grain for our own needs and to meet commitments abroad but that it isn't getting to market. Then we hear there isn't enough grain."

"What's more, we'd like to learn what our commitments abroad are, who made them and on what information this country's promises were based."

Plannagan said the committee also was anxious to learn why the government hadn't urged the growing of more grain instead of campaigning to cut down on feed to livestock.

Flannagan and other members of the committee have complained of what they described as confusing reports on food conditions.

Only a Threat
"First we have a report there is mass starvation," Flannagan said. "Now we have a report that Mr. Hoover sees only a threat of mass starvation."

"We hear there is plenty of grain for our own needs and to meet commitments abroad but that it isn't getting to market. Then we hear there isn't enough grain."

"What's more, we'd like to learn what our commitments abroad are, who made them and on what information this country's promises were based."

Flannagan said the committee also was anxious to learn why the government hadn't urged the growing of more grain instead of campaigning to cut down on feed to livestock.

Durocher Looks, Cautiously, At Flag

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, May 15—In the short space of two weeks Leo Durocher has changed his mind completely about improving the breed of Brooklyn ball players through his "youth movement" and has decided that, after all, it might be pleasant to win the National league flag.

Before his club showed its present potentialities and before the Cards began showing signs that they might not be invincible, Leo swore on a stack of score sheets that he would rather develop some crack young players this year than win the pennant with his veterans. It was suggested that something had happened to change his mind.

"It's not me," he said in quick denial. "I'm still not saying or thinking anything about winning a pennant. I've just made the changes in my line-up that seemed called for as we went along, like sending Pete Reiser back to his old position in center field."

"I don't say we can win the flag. I haven't even seen the Cards yet. But these boys of mine feel they can win it and I'm not going to tell them different. They think they're a great ball club. I've never seen finer team spirit. They came from behind to win nine of their first 14 victories."

Why, the other day when we got six runs behind to the Phillies, my boys still were talking it up on the bench and saying come on, we can beat those guys. Personally, I wasn't feeling so good. I wouldn't like to be six runs behind against the bloomer girls. But they did just what they said they would do—come up and win. They've got what it takes here."

Kill the Umpire

Umpire Art Passarella is rendered speechless as he suffers dislocated jaw on being struck by foul tip as Athletics beat Washington Senators, 6-4, in first game of double-header in Philadelphia. Jim Tadey, A's trainer, manipulates injured mandible while catcher Buddy Rosar looks on. Nobody seems sympathetic.

Diamond Dust

By DON E. BEATTIE, News Sports Editor

SURVEYING THE NATIONAL league picture after a week and a half of activity in Class A softball, statistics bring to light the fact that the Deming Pumpers are definitely not to be discounted when one selects a favorite to cop the league crown.

The fact that Kenney Brudery, one of Class A's top pitchers for the past several seasons, seems to be in as good a form as he has been for years, makes the thought even more palatable.

Also of great importance is the fact that Brudery is backed this season by a fine fielding club loaded with a batting punch that isn't far from the best shown in the National so far.

The PUMPERS HAVE won three games in three starts, two of which Brudery pitched and a third which Walt Holmes neatly chalked up from the mound position. Holmes' appearance was creditable, comparing favorably with the best shown in the National this year.

The pitching situation as a whole, in the National isn't bad at all. In fact, five National league pitchers are tossing them at a rate somewhat better than anyone but Johnny Zines in the rival American league.

The five hurling leaders in the National—from batting averages of their opposing batters, at least—are Brudery, Bill Bennett of the Salem Lunch, Bill Guappone of the IAC, Bill Ritchie of the Bowling Center and Dale Ritchie of Salem China. All have held batters opposing them to less than 250 in plate percentage.

GETTING BACK TO Manager Sanders' outfit, hitting has been one of its strong points in three games so far. Although as a team they are not leading the league, the Deming outfit is hitting a strong 250, clubbing 31 hits in 92 appearances at the plate while the combined opponents have hit only 163. Brudery and Holmes have limited the three Deming opponents to a total of only 13 hits and five runs as compared to the Pumpers' 31 hits and 23 runs.

Emmett Brudery is currently leading the way at the platter with six hits in eight times at bat for a .750 average. Sam Fridon, the only man in either league with two home runs, has hits in nine trips for a dangerous .667 average.

Arden Crumbaker with 500, Bill Ashman with 500, Howdy Kerr with a strong .444, Kenney Brudery's .333 and Gabby Ritchie's .300, all present an array of stick talent that makes the team a pitcher's headache.

MOST OBSERVERS AT the park have been more or less inclined to quickly choose Mullins as the favorite in the American league—mainly because of the hurling talents of John Zines. In the National, however, the favorite rating has been a question mark with a slight inclination toward the Salem China because of Dale Ritchie's hurling.

Demings have turned up with a well-balanced fielding club, fast on its feet and effective in all departments—at least in the first three games.

Pitching power is well-packaged in Brudery and Holmes, with plenty of batting power in the leading hitters. In fielding, Demings has paced the loop so far, taking more chances with only four errors than any other club.

Consequently, many are picking the Pump outfit to land on top this season. At least they won't be far from it.

Chubby Portsider Conquers Dodgers For 10th Straight Time; Ferriss Halts Chisox

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chubby Max Lanier, with 10 straight victories over Brooklyn to his credit, may be the decisive factor in the National league race if it narrows down to the Dodgers and Cardinals.

It's much too early to eliminate anybody from the flag chase, except the Phillies, but the early season results point to a duel between St. Louis and Brooklyn. The Red Birds, off to a stuttering start, closed the gap to one game yesterday by downing the Dodgers, 7-5, in 11 innings.

Eddie Dyer is new as skipper of the Cardinals but he knew the answer when he got to Brooklyn for the first time. He started Lanier, the Dodgers' hex.

Not since June 2, 1943, has the Flatbush flock been able to cut down the crafty lefthander from Denton, N. C. Lanier beat the Dodgers four times after that 3-2 setback in '43 and five in a row in 1944. He didn't pitch against them last year before he went into the army.

Lefty Max gave up nine hits over the 11 frames. In the 19-game victory span he has allowed the flock only 73 safe blows in an even 100 innings.

Chubby Portsider Conquers Dodgers For 10th Straight Time; Ferriss Halts Chisox

Leo Durocher's gang gave Lanier a good beating, coming back from a 5-0 deficit on some lusty slugging by Billy Herman and Dixie Walker to send the contest into overtime. With the bases loaded and two out in the 11th, Marty Marion punched a two-run single to centerfield that doomed the home club. Reliever Vic Lombardi was charged with the season's first Ebbets field loss of the season after nine successes.

Jim Wallace, another member of the brotherhood of lefthanders, sparked in the other National league fray, an eight tilt in Boston, when he hurled the Braves to a 5-1 edge over Pittsburgh.

Chubby Portsider Conquers Dodgers For 10th Straight Time; Ferriss Halts Chisox

Chubby Max Lanier, with 10 straight victories over Brooklyn to his credit, may be the decisive factor in the National league race if it narrows down to the Dodgers and Cardinals.

It's much too early to eliminate anybody from the flag chase, except the Phillies, but the early season results point to a duel between St. Louis and Brooklyn. The Red Birds, off to a stuttering start, closed the gap to one game yesterday by downing the Dodgers, 7-5, in 11 innings.

Eddie Dyer is new as skipper of the Cardinals but he knew the answer when he got to Brooklyn for the first time. He started Lanier, the Dodgers' hex.

Not since June 2, 1943, has the Flatbush flock been able to cut down the crafty lefthander from Denton, N. C. Lanier beat the Dodgers four times after that 3-2 setback in '43 and five in a row in 1944. He didn't pitch against them last year before he went into the army.

Lefty Max gave up nine hits over the 11 frames. In the 19-game victory span he has allowed the flock only 73 safe blows in an even 100 innings.

Leo Durocher's gang gave Lanier a good beating, coming back from a 5-0 deficit on some lusty slugging by Billy Herman and Dixie Walker to send the contest into overtime. With the bases loaded and two out in the 11th, Marty Marion punched a two-run single to centerfield that doomed the home club. Reliever Vic Lombardi was charged with the season's first Ebbets field loss of the season after nine successes.

Jim Wallace, another member of the brotherhood of lefthanders, sparked in the other National league fray, an eight tilt in Boston, when he hurled the Braves to a 5-1 edge over Pittsburgh.

Durocher Looks, Cautiously, At Flag

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, May 15.—In the short space of two weeks Leo Durocher has changed his mind completely about improving the breed of Brooklyn ball players through his "youth movement" and has decided that, after all, it might be pleasant to win the National league flag.

As the Dodgers, out in front of the pack after nearly a month of play, opened another of those "crucial" series against the St. Louis Cardinals at Ebbets field yesterday, they had their old-line professionals manning nearly every position. The kiddies who started the campaign so auspiciously in the outfield were back on the bench.

Before his club showed its present potentialities and before the Cards began showing signs that they might not be invincible, Leo swore on a stack of score sheets that he would rather develop some crack young players this year than win the pennant with his veterans. It was suggested that something had happened to change his mind.

"It's not me," he said in quick denial. "I'm still not saying or thinking anything about winning a pennant. I've just made the changes in my line-up that seemed called for as we went along, like sending Pete Reiser back to his old position in center field.

"I don't say we can win the flag. I haven't even seen the Cards yet. But these boys of mine feel they can win it and I'm not going to tell them different. They think they're a great ball club, I've never seen finer team spirit. They came from behind to win nine of their first 14 victories.

"Why, the other day when we got six runs behind to the Phillies my boys still were talking it up on the bench and saying come on, we can beat those guys. Personally, I wasn't feeling so good. I wouldn't like to be six runs behind against the bloomer girls. But they did just what they said they would do—came up and won. They've got what it takes here."

While the Dodger infield still is somewhat unsettled at a couple of positions, the remainder of the lineup appears to be established.

Dixie Walker, Augie Galan and Reiser comprise a tried and tested outfield with a husky punch at the plate. Barring injuries to the trio, it is doubtful the club's much-publicized rookies will get back in there.

The team's infield problems should be adjusted when the veteran Cookie Lavagetto is ready to take over his old job at third after several years in the service and a recent operation for chips on his throwing elbow. That will permit Billy Herman and Eddie Stanky, two capable operatives, to divide the chores at second.

Pee Wee Reese is, of course, a valuable fixture at short, a valuable fixture at short. He ranks right up with the best. Eddie Stevens, a 26-year-old, is playing a nice first base. Rookie Ferrell Anderson has clinched the first string catching job.

Kill the Umpire

Umpire Art Passarella is rendered speechless as he suffers dislocated jaw on being struck by foul tip as Athletics beat Washington Senators, 6-4, in first game of double-header in Philadelphia. Jim Tadel, A's trainer, manipulates injured mandible while catcher Buddy Rosar looks on. Nobody seems sympathetic.

Diamond Dust

SURVEYING THE NATIONAL league picture after a week and a half of activity in Class A softball, statistics bring to light the fact that the Deming Pumpers are definitely not to be discounted when one selects a favorite to cop the league crown.

The fact that Kenney Brudery, one of Class A's top pitchers for the past several seasons, seems to be in as good a form as he has been for years, makes the thought even more palatable.

Also of great importance is the fact that Brudery is backed this season by a fine fielding club loaded with a batting punch that isn't far from the best shown in the National so far.

THE PUMPERS HAVE won three games in three starts, two of which Brudery pitched and a third which Walt Holmes neatly chalked up from the mound position. Holmes' appearance was creditable, comparing favorably with the best shown in the National loop this year.

The pitching situation as a whole, in the National isn't bad at all. In fact, five National league pitchers are tossing them at a rate somewhat better than anyone but Johnny Zines in the rival American league.

The five hurling leaders in the National—from batting averages of their opposing batters, at least—are Brudery, Bill Bennett of the Salem Lunch, Bill Guappone of the IAC, Bill Ritchie of the Bowling Center and Dale Ritchie of Salem China. All have held batters opposing them to less than 250 in plate percentage.

GETTING BACK TO Manager Sanders' outfit, hitting has been one of its strong points in three games so far. Although as a team they are not leading the league, the Deming outfit is hitting a strong 250, clubbing 31 hits in 92 appearances at the plate while the combined opponents have hit only 163. Brudery and Holmes have limited the three Deming opponents to a total of only 13 hits and five runs as compared to the Pumpers' 31 hits and 23 runs.

Emmett Brudery is currently leading the way at the platter with six hits in eight times at bat for a .350 average. Sam Fridon, the only man in either loop with two home runs, has six hits in nine trips for a dangerous .667 average.

Arden Crumbaker with 590, Bill Ashman with 500, Howdy Kerr with a strong 444, Kenney Brudery's 333 and Gabby Ritchie's 300, all present an array of stick talent that makes the team a pitcher's headache.

MOST OBSERVERS AT the park have been more or less inclined to quickly choose Mullins as the favorite in the American league—mainly because of the hurling talents of John Zines. In the National, however, the favorite rating has been a question mark—with a slight inclination toward the Salem China because of Dale Ritchie's hurling.

Demings have turned up with a well-balanced fielding club, fast on its feet and effective in all departments—at least in the first games.

Pitching power is well-packed in Brudery and Holmes, with plenty of batting power in the leading hitters. In fielding, Demings has paced the loop so far, taking more chances with only four errors than any other club.

Consequently, many are picking the Pump outfit to land on top this season. At least they won't be far from it.

Dave (Boo) Ferriss was the big gun in the junior loop when he out-pitched Joe Haynes in a tight duel to blank Chicago, 3-0. Rudy York's towering homer in the fourth and his double in the seventh boosted Ferriss along the way to his fourth straight triumph.

Bender Is Given
GOP Chairmanship

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Despite opposition by Republican gubernatorial Candidate Thomas J. Herbert and Senatorial Nominee John W. Bricker, Congressman George Bender today began his fifth consecutive term as chairman of the G. O. P.'s Cuyahoga county central committee.

Bender, who won his fight for reelection last night by a 689 to 331 roll call vote of county committee-men, told members of the committee after his retention as chairman that there was "no bitterness in my heart and no ill toward anyone."

"I have never witnessed such pressure from outsiders as we have had in the last few weeks," declared Bender, declining to name the "outsiders" allegedly involved in the move to unseat him as party leader.

"I am sure everyone here will work to elect Thomas J. Herbert governor and John W. Bricker senator," he said, adding, "I hope we will proceed in a harmonious manner to work for our party."

Former Mayor Edward Blythin, whose candidacy as committee chairman was supported by Bricker and Herbert, moved that a secret ballot be used at the committee's convention last night but Bender ruled that a vocal vote in the noisy session had defeated Blythin's motion.

Blythin told the convention at the close of the session that he regretted their failure to vote by a secret ballot which he termed a "principal weapon and mechanism of democracy."

Blythin's supporters, who lost a court fight in an attempt to force postponement of the convention, asserted Herbert had told them prior to the election that his campaign would be conducted by independent headquarters and that Bender's headquarters would be "ignored" if the congressman was retained as committee chairman.

Gives Talk On Gas

J. Arch Harwood, district manager of the Natural Gas Co. of W. Va., spoke to Rotary club members concerning natural gas yesterday noon in the Memorial building.

After tracing the history of natural gas from prehistoric ages to the present, Harwood described the safety measures being taken by various companies to prevent recurrences of the terrific explosion which rocked Cleveland's East side last year.

He told Rotarians that gas is now being stored in the ground instead of in tanks thus eliminating the possibility of explosion and mentioned briefly some of the new uses found for natural gas.

Harry Carloss was in charge of the program.

Bowel Cleaning Power

Of Erb-Help Medicine

One man recently took ERB-HELP three days and said afterward that he never would have believed his body contained so much filthy substance. He says his stomach, intestines, bowels, and whole system were so thoroughly cleansed that his constant headaches came to an end, several pimply skin eruptions on his face dried up overnight, and even the rheumatic pains in his knee disappeared. At present he is an altogether different man, feeling fine in every way.

Bender Is Given
GOP Chairmanship

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, May 15.—Despite opposition by Republican gubernatorial Candidate Thomas J. Herbert and Senatorial Nominee John W. Bricker, Congressman George Bender today began his fifth consecutive term as chairman of the G. O. P.'s Cuyahoga county central committee.

Bender, who won his fight for reelection last night by a 689 to 331 roll call vote of county committee-men, told members of the committee after his retention as chairman that there was "no bitterness in my heart and no ill toward anyone."

"I have never witnessed such pressure from outsiders as we have had in the last few weeks," declared Bender, declining to name the "outsiders" allegedly involved in the move to unseat him as party leader.

"I am sure everyone here will work to elect Thomas J. Herbert governor and John W. Bricker senator," he said, adding, "I hope we will proceed in a harmonious manner to work for our party."

Former Mayor Edward Blythin, whose candidacy as committee chairman was supported by Bricker and Herbert, moved that a secret ballot be used at the committee's convention last night but Bender ruled that a vocal vote in the noisy session had defeated Blythin's motion.

Blythin told the convention at the close of the session that he regretted their failure to vote by a secret ballot which he termed a "principal weapon and mechanism of democracy."

Blythin's supporters, who lost a court fight in an attempt to force postponement of the convention, asserted Herbert had told them prior to the election that his campaign would be conducted by independent headquarters and that Bender's headquarters would be "ignored" if the congressman was retained as committee chairman.

He told Rotarians that gas is now being stored in the ground instead of in tanks thus eliminating the possibility of explosion and mentioned briefly some of the new uses found for natural gas.
